The very unpleasant state of the weather Tuesday, making any public exercises impracticable if not impossible, cast a shadow over all who had so expectantly awaited the time of the annual meet ing. Not wishing to disappoint the hundreds of people anxious to see their parade - $52,000 and drill, the Knights kindly postponed all exercises of a public nature until yesterday, but the coming of another day tended not to raise their spirits as the morning dawned dark and lowering, and with every B. As the grand and inspiring pageant moved up the street, led by the Knights Templar band of Emporia, the streets, housetops and awnings were thronged with people, and many were the complimentary remarks made as the finely uniformed and better appearing divisions of Sir Knights passed, their tasty uniforms, bright helofficers in command, closely followed by the famous K.
